General and Revenue Secretariat. | File No. of 191

Serial No.

The Jamedars duffedars and chobdars of the General and Revenue Secretariat have submitted a petition praying the grant of scarlet liveries to them instead of the usual bottle-green

The issue of special liveries is regulated by Government Order No G.6787-819 dated 16th May 1908. Rule IV of the Government Order makes mention of "bottlegreen" while in the statement appended thereto mention is made of both "scarlet and "bottlegreen" In pursuance of the wording of the rule the General and Revenue Secretariat has been issuing ever since liveries of "bottle green" colour. Only on one occasion in June 1913 the Dewan's office issued scarlet liveries to the two Jamedars in attendance on the Dewan

Flag P

No reasons could be found in the original papers relating to the Government Order, referred to, as to the selection of "bottlegreen" colour. An office note of the office of the Secretary Representative Committee makes mention of a circumstance that the late Dewan as 1st Councillor and Member of Re[illegible] Committee observed as follows "Scarlet is stated to have been tabooed

The Private Secretary to the Dewan to whom the question was referred states in his note dated 25th May 1915 that " it was the idea that only select menials directly attending on the Dewan should be given scarlet livery"

The main contention seems to be that the Jamedars of the Dewan are given scarlet while the others have been differently treated.

In this connection the practice obtaining in other offices issuing special liveries has been ascertained and is not found to be uniform. The colour of livery issued by the different offices is shown on the margin.

1. Scarlet	Chief Court Private Secretary to H.H. Asst ,, ,, ,, Dept of Mines & Geology.
2. Dark blue	Military Secretary
3. Black	Public Works Sectt. Railway ,,
4. Bottlegreen	General & Rev Sectt.

The menials of the General and Revenue Secretariat prefer livery of scarlet colour to bottlegreen Their preference appears to be well based as scarlet colour wears longer than bottlegreen Bottlegreen liveries do not keep colour for the period they are required to last viz three years as has been found by experience. Further the cost of good bottlegreen banath of superior quality which may be expected to retain colour for a ~~long~~ longer time is rather high and does not admit of liveries being made therefrom within the sanctioned amount. As scarlet colour finds mention in the statements appended to the Government Order of ~~May~~ 1908 and in the absence of an order prohibiting the use of this colour for liveries there appears to be no objection to permission being accorded for providing the menials entitled to special livery with liveries of ~~this~~ Scarlet colour This proposal does not involve any extra cost and the menials will be tidy for a much longer time than if supplied with livery of bottlegreen colour within sanctioned limits.

Respected sir,

We the undermentioned Jemadars Duffedars & Chobdars of the Secretariat Establishment represent the following few lines for your kind consideration and orders.

As we have been compelled by the Registrar to accept the Bottle-green uniform we have been hesitating to accept the same owing to the quality of the cloth not being worth while going in and more so it will get soiled very soon and resembles an ugly colour.

We beg therefore to kindly order for the issue of Red Colour uniform as was supplied to the Jamedars in attendance with the Dewan Saheb

For which act of kindness we shall ever pray

We beg to remain
